Working Families Party Regional Caucus

The Working Families Party is a new grassroots political party founded to focus on the bread and butter economic issues that matter most to working families, like jobs, schools, and healthcare.

Thanks to the fusion voting law signed by the Governor last year, the Working Families Party can “cross-nominate” candidates from any party, based on their stance on our issues.

The candidates that get the WFP’s nomination are the ones who are strongest on our priorities. They get our “seal of approval” next to their name on the ballot, and we get a new and powerful way to hold them accountable.

Meeting Information

We will elect delegates to represent the voters of the 1st and 3rd congressional districts as we choose which candidates deserve our seal of approval in the 2010 general election. Come to learn more, and to help build our Party from the ground up.
